Miss Robinson, Miss Pearl McCann, Mrs. Inlay, and Messrs Chapman, R. Anderson, and F. Anderson attended the Red Cross Dance given at Namaka last Friday evening. They report a very pleasant time. Miss Inlay was the winner of the first prize in the bean contest, she guessing 999 beans in the jar which contained 1002.

We regret to report that another Strathmore boy has been wounded. Henry G. S. Cole, of the 3rd Canadian Mounted Rifles, it will be remembered that Mr. Cole enlisted for active service about a year ago. He had been employed for four years at the Strathmore Hardware Co's store, previous to enlisting. It is to be hoped that he is not seriously wounded.

Mr. Leo McDonald left the latter part of last week for Vancouver. B. C. Mr. McDonald has purchased some property there and is building a house on the property. Although over eighty years of age, he is hale and hearty and is a good woodworker and carpenter. He intends to be away for six months and finish the building of the residence. It is possible that he will spend his declining years at Vancouver.

Ladies doing sewing for the Patriotic Society will be glad to learn that the helpless case Shiras may be machine stitched down the fronts and the bottom instead of herring bone stitching. The other seams must be herring bone as per original instructions. There is still an urgent appeal for these shirts, material of which can be obtained, already cut, at the Patriotic Office. There are a number of ladies of Strathmore and district who have not responded to the call.

IT'S HARD TO WAIT FOR SUMMER

I've waited all the long and weary winter, And wished the snow and ice would go away; I've watched each tree and bush upon the hill-side, And waited for the birds to come and stay. It's mighty hard to have to watch the snowdrifts Pile up across the road and on the hill; It's mighty hard to see the ice afeezing, 'Till all the lakes and brooks are still.

There ain't much one can do out here in winter, 'Cept coasting down the hill and skating some; I would'n't give a cent for all the sleigh-rides; I wish old summer'd hurry up and come. I want to hear the birds sing in the pasture, And know the brooks are rushing down the hill; I want to see the trees all white with blossoms, I want to go and fish down by the mill.

I know a place down there below the wood-land, Where trout so big and shylike hide; The pool is deep and overhung with alders— You can't get near it only on one side. I'll wait with all courage I can muster— It's hard I know but boys should not complain, I'll get my fishing-tackle out and ready For summer when she comes again.

Farmers' Institute Meeting Well Attended.

MR. DON H. BARK, OF STRATHMORE, GIVES SPLENDID ADDRESS ON ALFALFA CULTURE

Quite a goodly sprinkling of the farmers of the district were present at the Institute Meeting held in the Opera House on Wednesday afternoon, under the auspices of the Provincial Department of Agriculture. The audience was also augmented by pupils of our public and high schools, and the speakers were accorded splendid hearings and much interest was evinced by the farmers present.

Mr. Don H. Bark, who is a Strathmore citizen, was the principal speaker and was in fine form. He took as his topic "Alfalfa and its value to the Western Provinces of Canada." He said in part, as follows:

No other forage crop combines so many essentials of merit as does alfalfa. It surpasses all other crops in both yield and feeding value as well as in its beneficial effect upon the soil. Alfalfa has now been grown in Alberta with both success and profit for a sufficient number of years to demonstrate not only its great feeding value, but its strength and hardness and general adaptability to the climate as well.

Alfalfa has formed one of the best roughages for fattening beef cattle, for the cattle not only relish it, and do exceedingly well on it, but its lack of bulkiness enables the animal to consume sufficient quantities for rapid gains. It is also very valuable for growing young stock before the fattening period begins. Dairy cows also do better on alfalfa. In a test, the feeding value of alfalfa vs. timothy hay, alfalfa hay proved to have more than double the value of timothy for milk production.

Alfalfa may be fed to horses, both in the green state and as hay. The hay, by nature of its internal anatomy, is not supposed to be so constructed that it can economically handle torage crops, but there is an exception to this rule in the case of alfalfa with the hay. He will thrive exceptionally well on it, and the quality of pork made from alfalfa feed is not excelled by that made from any other feed. As a pasture for young growing hogs, alfalfa has no equal, and if there is a better pasture for brood sows, it has never yet been discovered.

The fertilizing value of alfalfa as indicated by the increased production of subsequent crops is well known in all old alfalfa raising districts. Indeed the value of the fertilizing effect and general soil improvement is brought about not only from the roots, the decay of which adds nitrogen, but they also bring up mineral constituents from the lower layers of soil. The nitrogen fixing bacteria which must be present upon the alfalfa are also constantly at work and add to, and store up, an immense amount of nitrogen in the soil in a form which is immediately available as plant food.

CULTURE OF ALFALFA

Although alfalfa will grow and do well upon almost any class of soil, provided other conditions are favorable, it prefers the lighter soils, such as the sandy, sandy loam, and clay loam. The only thing alfalfa will not stand is "wet feet," that is, it must be grown on well drained soil, where the water table never approaches the surface closer than five feet. Most farms contain one or more soil types, in which case if the alfalfa is inclined to be heavy the alfalfa should be planted on the lighter soil. One should not hesitate, however, to try alfalfa on a limited area at first, even if his farm consists all of heavy soil, but when planted on heavy soil greater than ordinary care should be exercised to see that it is planted on well drained land with a fairly good slope.

The seeds of alfalfa are small and a good stand cannot be secured if planted on rough, cloddy ground. The finest kind of seed bed, well pulverized and compact, is therefore one too good for alfalfa. Summer, fallow land or land that has been in a cultivated crop, and free of weeds.

There have probably been more failures with alfalfa in Western Canada which were due to a lack of proper inoculation than to any one thing. Alfalfa is a gross feeder that produces high yields which are very rich in nitrogen, and all of which must be supplied from the soil. Western prairie soils are deficient in nitrogen, and usually contain far too little nitrogen to produce maximum yields of alfalfa for any length of time unless the necessary bacteria are present, which have the power of working over the face, nitrogen in the soil air and storing it up in the soil in an available form for the use of the plants. It is apparent, however, in most alfalfa growing districts of Canada, that there are insufficient of these particular bacteria in the soil to accomplish this purpose, and inoculation of the soil of alfalfa is necessary in order to place a sufficient number in the soil so that their multiplication can take care of it even over the long rainy season.

This is accomplished by means of either soil transfer, or inoculation by pure culture methods. The soil transfer method of inoculation consists in securing soil from the top foot of an old well-established alfalfa field, one that positively contains the bacteria, and in scattering it evenly over the crop to be sown to alfalfa at the rate of about 250 to 500 pounds per acre. As bright sunshine will kill all classes of bacteria easily and quickly including alfalfa bacteria, this soil should be kept in a cool dark place after it is secured and should be evenly applied to the field to be inoculated immediately before the alfalfa is sown, after which it should be im-

BUY AN IRRIGATED FARM

FROM THE CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY BECAUSE—

Irrigation makes the farmer independent of rainfall and assures good crops, not occasionally, but EVERY YEAR. Irrigation makes possible the successful culture of alfalfa, the king of feeders, which insures best returns in dairying and mixed farming. Irrigation means intensive farming and close settlement, with all the advantages of a densely populated agricultural community. Irrigation in the Canadian Pacific Railway Irrigation Block is no longer an experiment, the year 1911 having absolutely demonstrated that alfalfa can be profitably and successfully applied. You can buy irrigated land from the Canadian Pacific Railway at prices ranging from $10 to $25 per acre, with twenty years to pay and the privilege of a loan of $2000 for improvements. Interest, no principal payments at the end of first, or second years and no water rental for first year. Assistance is given in supplying stock in approved institutions. This is the most liberal offer of irrigated farm land on record. Get full particulars from:

"The Tea Girl."

A MUSICAL COMEDY IN TWO ACTS.

STRATHMORE OPERA HOUSE,
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 25TH.

IN AID OF THE CANADIAN
PATRIOTIC FUND.

ACT 1.—The setting of the comedy is on the Tea Plantations of Ceylon. Nanaya, who is by blood a native princess, was betrothed when a child to a native prince, Boobhamba. This arrangement was anything but pleasing to her when she became older than to her betrothed.
She therefore secluded herself as a simple tea girl on her own tea plantation. A neighboring tea planter, Bobby, an English Noman, falls in love with her and his affections are returned.
Boobhamba now seeks his bride,
and Chamba, a native school master, who has been educated in England, consent to bring Nanaya to reason. Lady Peggy, Bobby's cousin, newly arrived from England, endeavors to put the tangle
straight for him by interceding
with Boobhamba.

ACT 2.—The play progresses,
giving touches of life in Gay
Ceylon, Boobhamba and Lady Peggy become very companionable and it looks as though Nanaya and Bobby will presently have in opposition. The decision of Boobhamba, with regard to Nan-aya, is reserved until Friday evening, the 25th instant.

Ticket holders are assured of a very enjoyable evening at this tuneful and topical comedy.

A Communication.

Strathmore,
Feb. 18th, 1916

The Editor, Strathmore Standard
Dear Sir,—In reading up your article on the reasons why Strathmore should have an Agricultural School, I notice you speak of the progressiveness of the people of this town. There is one thing lacking in Strathmore in my estimation and that is an electric light system.
When you stop to think of what electricity will do in the home, it lights, cooks, irons, washes, pumps
water, runs electric fans for summer and heaters for winter, it reduces insurance rates in its safety over coal and gasoline, it is clean and odorless. There is a plant right close to town that might be obtained by a little judicious co-operation between the company operating same and the City Fathers. If we get our School, as no doubt we will, would we call it up-to-date if it was not equipped with electricity?
It is a subject every student must study as we need it in so many forms. The time is at hand when every farm will have its own little plant. There are towns of less importance than Strathmore that are using this most useful of all powers.—Yours for

"THE TAKING OF THE GUNS"

The charge of the British Lancers against German guns in the neighborhood of Ypres during the early days of the 1914 operations at the front will live in history among the most heroic deeds of our army. It will also live in poetry, like the Ballad of the Charge of the Light Brigade. The subject of some stirring lines. "At the cannon in ambushment our foremen spurred, knights of liberty, glory's sons, and slew the Germans' horsemen." The Ninth Lancers had been covering the retreat of the infantry when they were told by their colonel that eleven German guns, on the outskirts of a wood about a mile away, must be taken, and the Lancers dashed forward and a hail of shrapnel and rifle bullets, riding down the enemy's infantry. As they approached the guns many of the Germans ran into the woods, but those who remained were cut to pieces. After snatching the guns out of action, the Lancers rode back under a fierce fire from other guns on their flank.
